THE Y. M. C. A. BULLETIN

On the lot at the corner of Union and Limerock streets the public eye is now caught by a huge bulletin-board, handsomely painted, bearing this inscription:

ROCKLAND Y. M. C. A.
On this slightly lot is some day to stand a Building dedicated to the welfare of the Young Men and Boys of this city. The time must depend upon individual generosity. A gift NOW may bring the Building early. Will YOU help?

The bulletin measures 10x15 feet, the lumber and labor of construction being the gift of the W. H. Crie Co. The lettering is by the E. H. Crie Co.

AS TO TWELFTH NIGHT

So many lady readers have pounced upon The Courier-Gazette for its statement that Twelfth Night occurs the night of Jan. 5, that we feel constrained to notice the attack. Hitherto this paper had supposed the occasion to be the night of Epiphany, which falls on Jan. 6, or twelve days after Christmas. Webster's latest dictionary says Twelfth Night is "the evening of the Epiphany." The New York World Dictionary, a great authority on most matters, under the heading "Old English Holidays," says:
"Jan. 6—Twelfth Day, or Twelfth-tide, sometimes called Old Christmas Day, the same as Epiphany. The previous night is Twelfth Night, with which many social rites have long been connected."
These two authorities appear to differ. We have looked into numerous ancient records and find that there was merrymaking on both the nights of Jan. 5 and 6. We are going to take down our Christmas decorations Jan. 6, accepting that as Twelfth Night, and burn them, of course, to keep away the witches.

Robert H. House is home from New York, where for the first time he enjoyed the companionship of a cousin he had not seen in 29 years, James Strout House. They met by chance in the big throng at Grand Central station, and the family resemblance was so strong that the recognition was mutual and instantaneous. James S. House is first officer on the English steamship Rosalie which had just arrived from Naples, after an exciting voyage. He was first officer on a steamship of the same name when it was sunk by German torpedoes a few weeks ago, and the craft was in the group of steam vessels off Nantucket Shoals when the German U-boat was operating with such disastrous effect. On the voyage just completed the Rosalie was in wireless touch with the steamship Maryland which sank somewhere before assistance could arrive. The cousins were in New York in season to witness the New Year's celebration and in Boston next day witnessed further New Year's festivities.

Fisheries Department a Joke

Correspondent Uses Plain English in Expressing Opinion of Proposed 9-Inch Lobster Law.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:

One is not obliged to take time to prove that the supply of lobsters on the Maine coast is fast diminishing; all acknowledge that fact and the question now is: What shall we do with this two million dollar industry? We have read and heard a great deal of late about a nine-inch law to conform with the laws of Massachusetts, which, even to a childish mind, would indicate that those who advocate it care nothing for the future of the industry and are willing to take the easiest course, which usually means destruction.

Would it not be wiser to try to protect the remnant and if possible increase the supply?

The Portland Express in a late issue said: "The past two years have found conditions, so far as the taking of short lobsters goes, to be as bad as they have ever been. With the amount of money available for the Department of Sea and Shore Fisheries and the limited number of boats and wardens, the attempt to prevent illegal length lobsters from being caught and sold is a futile one. Practical fishermen, not theorists, believe that our lobster fishing industry would be much better off if we should adopt a nine-inch law to conform with the laws of Massachusetts and New Hampshire and give it a fair trial for two years."

Did they ask those practical fishermen what would be the condition of the industry at the end of the two years? As a matter of fact it is the honest opinion of all acquainted with the business that it could not be called a business or an industry after two years of a nine-inch law.

Two years ago our Legislature enacted the best lobster law ever put on the statute books of any State. On the coast of Massachusetts, where the scallop fishery in Buzzards Bay, which in 1914 produced $93,000 worth of fish, have all been killed by star fish that were attracted to the beds by the "rims" which the fishermen have been growing back on the beds. If these beds could have been under the supervision of a biologist this could have been prevented.

To enforce all the laws would take all of the time of an expert in that line, and for the record, no man in this Commission I would appoint one who had served several terms as warden and whose honesty and fearlessness was unquestioned. It does not require a lawyer for this position, but rather a detective.

To round out the Board of Managers, or Commission, I would select another who had been connected with the fishing business in all its branches. For the past ten years the Sea and Shore Fisheries has been the football of politics. Instead of being regarded as an industry bringing to the State a large revenue, it is a joke. Men have been appointed to manage it who knew absolutely nothing about the business, and in fact any other business. I believe that the lobster industry is worth saving to the future citizens of this State; that it can be saved by the enforcement of the present law; and that the present law can be enforced.

The man who advocates a nine-inch law is so blinded by the cent in immediate view that he cannot see the dollars of the future. Let us treat this magnificent business in a business way. "Protection."

Gen. Knox Chapter Ushers In New Year With Delightful Gathering.

Gen. Knox Chapter, D. A. R., met with Mrs. Levi Seavey Monday evening. Mrs. Charles S. Creighton, the regent, presided. The business transacted dealt principally with the campaign work for the Knox Memorial and the coming entertainment by Mrs. Hazlett at Miss Watts', when Mrs. Hazlett will read her two papers, one on "Gen. Knox's Daughters" and one on "Montpelier." Members of Lady Knox Chapter, Rockland, and the local chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution are to be invited. The proceeds are to be devoted to the Knox Memorial.

Mrs. Jennie O'Neill and Miss Hattie Williams, the two new members, met with the Chapter for the first time. After the business meeting the Chapter listened with much pleasure to the following musical program by some of the talented young people of Thomaston:

Miss Mary Jordan, violin "Viennese Popular Song," Kreisler, Minuet in G, Beethoven; Miss Hilda George, "I'm Wearing Awa, Jean," Foote; Robert "Montpelier," Members of Lady Knox Chapter, Rockland, and the local chapter of the Sons of the American Revolution are to be invited. The proceeds are to be devoted to the Knox Memorial.

Miss Margaret Seavey and Robert Creighton acted as accompanists and as the artists generously responded with encores, the concert was a treat long to be remembered. Refreshments of ice cream and cake were served by Mrs. Seavey and Mrs. Creighton. Gen. Knox Chapter is deeply indebted to Mrs. Seavey and the young folks for a delightful evening, which made a happy beginning for the new year.

Dr. Louis C. Bickford is in Portland receiving treatment from Dr. Frederic H. Gersham for a nervous breakdown. Incidentally he is attending the clinics at the hospitals there. Dr. Bickford writes that he is improving so rapidly that he will soon return to Rockland and conduct at his home, 38 Middle street, a sanatorium for all nervous affections, drug addictions, etc.

A Lynn correspondent writes: "So many circles of Lynn, Mass., felt very keenly the sudden departure of Allan H. Buckinton and Theodore E. Perry from that city and wish to express through this paper their regrets for not having been able to give them a Chinese banquet, knowing their appetite for oriental food." It is said that the Rockland duo are still pining.

E. O. Philbrook, the northern wheelwright and garage man, concedes himself to have been a bit careless Tuesday morning when he undertook to fasten a sleeve fire with the aid of kerosene. The method was so unexpediently effective that Mr. Philbrook suddenly found his clothing ablaze. He extinguished the blaze by rolling in the snow, but not before his arms and legs had been badly burned. He is attended by Dr. Wagsell.

The Knox County High School Basketball League opens tonight, with a contest between Rockland High and Thomaston High in Thomaston. Encouraged by its victory over Lisbon Falls High, the locals feel morally certain they can skin the Thomastonans, and to that end will play a number of second string men. The manager should not forget the old adage which runs something like this: There's many a spill betwixt the stein and the smacker.

There will be no prettier installation in Rockland this season than the one which took place in Temple hall Wednesday night, when the officers of the Anderson Camp Auxiliary, Sons of Veterans, took their chairs. The Auxiliary's paraphernalia was transferred from Grand Army hall, and supplemented by an artistic arrangement of bays and pennants, gave to Temple hall an exceedingly patriotic and pleasing appearance. Colored lights, red, white and blue, were also used very effectively. The installing officer was Mrs. Anna Huntley, who is Division installing officer. She was assisted by Mrs. Gertrude Sleeper as guide, Mrs. Geo. Knight as assistant guide, Mrs. Hattie Ludwig and Mrs. Florence Rogers as color guards and Mrs. Elsie Jones as chaplain. The newly elected and appointed officers are: President, Miss Velma Thornton; vice president, Mrs. Kate Studley; trustees, Mrs. Mabel Barstow, Mrs. Mabel Cross and Mrs. Elsie Jones; treasurer, Miss May Barstow; secretary, Mrs. Lucy Ulmer; chaplain, Mrs. Elizabeth Merry; patriotic instructor, Mrs. Bertha Higgins; guide, Mrs. Anna Huntley; assistant guide, Mrs. Grace Keller; inside guide, Mrs. Nettie Ashorn; outside guard, Mrs. Fannie Benner; color guards, Mrs. Edna Perry and Miss Myrtle Wotton; press correspondent, Miss Ida Bakes; past president, Mrs. Mabel Barstow. A very pleasing feature was the presentation of a gold pendant and chain to the retiring president, Mrs. Beaton. The Auxiliary's sentiments were nicely voiced by Mrs. Mabel Cross. Dancing followed the installation ceremonies, with music by Marston's orchestra. Nearly 100 couples took part. The order comprised old as well as new style dances, and old and young mingled on the surface. The enjoyment they were deriving was manifest on every happy countenance. Refreshments were served.

The living and dining rooms were lighted only by pink shaded candles, and when the guests entered the dining room, a doll crowned as a bride, and forming the centerpiece of the table, was the cause of some suspicion. Upon opening pink satin bags which were drawn from beneath the bride's court train by pink ribbons extending to each place card, "the cat was out of the bag," for each bag contained black pussy cats bearing the names of Miss Edna L. Simmons and Harold W. Look, Miss Simmons is the eldest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. E. E. Simmons of Knox street, and Mr. Look is the son of Mrs. Carrie E. Look of Mechanic street.

PILLSBURY-PETERSON

Alfred Perkins Pillsbury of Springfield, Mass., and Miss Lillian Peterson of South Thomaston were married yesterday noon at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Peterson. The ceremony was performed by Rev. Elmer A. Allen of the Rockland Universalist church, in the presence of the families, and a few of their most intimate friends. The couple were unmarried, and the ceremony was quite devoid of display. Mr. Pillsbury and bride are making an extended honeymoon tour, after which they will reside in Springfield. The bridegroom is a son of the late A. F. H. Pillsbury of Springfield, whose summer home at Owl's Head has for some years been the center of many social events in which the young people of Rockland and vicinity have been participants. One of the most popular members of these gatherings was Miss Peterson, and here began the romance which culminated in yesterday's wedding. Mr. Pillsbury is a graduate of Williams College, 1915, and a member of Sigma Phi fraternity.

LEVINE-ROSS

Another attractive Jewish wedding took place in the Synagogue on Willow street New Year's Eve, when Miss Bertha Ross of this city was bound in marriage to Morris A. Levine of Portland.

The ceremony began at 7 o'clock, with a wedding procession consisting of 15 bridesmaids, led by Miss Sarah Ross, sister of the bride, and Miss Lillian Segal of Portland, cousin of the bride, carrying candles of all colors and sparklers. The bride and groom and their parents marched to the canopy, which was supported by four posts nicely decorated, and held by two little girls, cousins of the bride and groom.

The ceremony was first performed according to the rights of American law by Harry B. Bradbury, Justice of the peace, and then by Rev. Hullman of this city, according to the Jewish religion. After the ceremony, the bride formed the many friends of the bride and groom marched to the platform and congratulated the couple with many good wishes for their future married life. Telegrams from many distant friends were read by Hyman Rosenbloom. The telegrams numbered 54 and came mostly from Maine and Boston, with a few from New York.

Supper was served in the hall below. Hyman Alperin acting as head waiter. At 8.45 the dancing started. Sam Ross, brother of the bride, and Hyman Alperin, acting as floor directors, insisted on starting the older people with an old-fashioned Russian Sam Ross and Kazelsky, which was much enjoyed by everyone in the hall. It was followed by an exhibition dance given by two couples, Harry Carvel and Miss Sadie Lewis, both of Portland, and Hyman Alperin and Miss Sadie Lewis of New York City. Mr. Carvel and Miss Lewis won many honors at the Exhibition Building in Portland with dancing. The guests danced the old year out and the new year in.

There were present about 250 relatives and friends. Those from out of town were Mr. and Mrs. M. Levine, parents of the groom; Tom and Harry Levine, brothers of the groom, of Portland; Mrs. Carvel and sons Harry and David, of Portland; Sam Ross, a relative of the groom; Mr. Bernstein, Miss Sadie Lewis, Miss Edith Kruger, J. Segal and daughter Lillian, and Mollie Cliff, all of Portland and many friends from Boston and Bangor. The relatives of the bride and groom were presented with handsome bouquets and an exquisite cluster of white roses was carried by the bride. The bride's gown was white crepe de chine trimmed with shantung and pearls. The best man was Tom Levine. Sarah Ross, sister of the bride, and Lillian Segal, cousin of the bride, were maids of honor, and Gertrude Ross, sister of the bride, was flower girl.

The following day at the bride's residence, 6 Fogg street, a joyful day was passed. Violin and piano solos were played by Sam Ross and sister Gertrude. Many Jewish songs were sung by Sarah Ross and by the many friends from out of town. The bride left Tuesday on the 5 o'clock train for their homes. Mr. and Mrs. M. A. Levine will make a honeymoon trip to Philadelphia, and returning will make their new home in Portland, Maine. Beautiful presents were given to the young couple.

The Beautiful Adventure
By Izola Forrester

I was a supreme test of friendship, visiting the Delmar's on New Year's. Wrapped in fur, with a cap meeting her collar, Winifred stood on the bleak little platform at Byers' Corners.

She had left Boston at 5:45—plenty of time to reach Windyheath in good time. Anne had written her.

"It's just a nice little run over from Providence on the Providence and Wilmamatic line. We'll meet you at Byers' Corners. The trains only stop there on signal or to let off visitors, and the only visitors that ever come are ours. If I don't or I can't come over I'll send a wonderful substitute."

Evidently Rolf, Anne and the substitute had been overcome by the storm. Trains had been delayed from Boston to Providence and on the little local line they had waited again and again along the way. There had been no real need of any signal to let her off when Byers' Corners came in view.

The drifts were so high that it took the train 20 minutes to get out of Byers' Corners, let alone getting in. But again Anne had written:

"Don't feel discouraged getting to us. We live in the quaintest little village perched on the top of a hill, but it is wonderful when you get here, and we're piling on big logs for you."

Don't stay stuffed-up! Quit blowing and snuffling! Ease your throbbing head—nothing else in the world gives such prompt relief as "Pape's Cold Compound," which costs only 25 cents at any drug store. It acts without assistance, tastes nice, and causes no inconvenience. Be sure you get the genuine.

hills looked better to him than all the old world put together. Even in the darkness the pine trees stood out, their branches heavy with snow, and before them here and there in the fields were clumps of white birch and red oak, with dry leaves still clinging to their boughs. The stars shone famously up in the winter sky.

Gregory half turned in his seat and talked. They had many friends in common. He had known Rolf since they were boys back in Denver. Neither of them noticed after five miles had been covered that the horses were walking, breasting the drifts and literally wading through, until they came to a dead halt and the driver jumped out. They couldn't go on, he said. The snow was up to the top of the fences as far as one could see. He could turn around and get them up to the old Annabelle Smith place, where there was a telephone, and they could call up Windyheath.

"It's only late-thirty," Gregory said reassuringly. "And we don't get an adventure every day. Let's go."

The Smith place was dark when they reached it, but the driver knocked lustily and finally there was a faint, frightened voice from the inner side of the front door asking who it was at that time of night. Gregory explained, with the driver's help, and they were admitted.

"But you can't get word through to-night. The wires don't work. They never do after a big storm on these here party lines," said Miss Smith, holding up a big old lamp. "Just stop right out into the kitchen and you stir up the fire, Mr. Make yourselves to home, folks. I can drive back and maybe telephone from the village up there."

Winifred never forgot that New Year's eve. After Mrs. Ingraham had gone, they sat out in the cheery old kitchen, drinking tea, eating nuts and apples and mince pie, and getting fearfully well acquainted, as Miss Smith put it laughingly. Gregory carried in wood and split kindlings for morning, and looked up for the night. While Miss Smith went to look after her old bedridden father, they sat together by the fire, and somehow talk died away. The old clock up on the chimney mantel softly struck twelve in the silence. Winifred looked up and smiled, her head leaning back on the cushioned top of the old black rocker.

"Happy New Year!" she said. "Isn't it the queerest thing, our being way up here miles from everyone we know, and not knowing each other even, and starting off the new year together?"

"It's great," Gregory clapped his hands around one knee, seated on the woodbox under the big Dutch oven. "I'm not superstitious, but after rambling for a year over these same fields much worth while. You know I'd almost begun to think, if you won't mind my saying so, that there wasn't anyone like you in the world."

Miss Smith hurried through the entry way.

"I'm back with a bigger team and he's going to take you through all right, he says. I drove over that bad spot in the roads and broke it for you. And he's telephoned to Mrs. Delmar that you're coming."

It was nearly two when they reached Windyheath. All of the windows of the big country house were lighted up, and Anne herself, wrapped in a wonderful velvet and fur housegown, ran down the steps to meet them.

"Oh, my dear, my dear!" she cried when she had Winifred safely upstairs in her room. "You poor child!"

"I'm not poor," Winifred said defiantly. "I've had the most beautiful adventure of my whole life, and I'm in love. I agree with you and fate this time."

"But it isn't Gregory I want you to meet," faltered Anne. "You haven't gone and fallen in love with dear old Greg?"

"Of course," Winifred laughed happily. "Both of us have. I never believed in love at first sight before, or anything like it, but I've made some wonderful resolutions for the new year this time."

"Now listen to me and the whole comedy. Anne curled up on the bed confidentially. "The man you were to marry is right down smoking with Rolf this minute. He's Madison Forbes, with money, position, everything, my dear. But he didn't think you'd try to make the trip such a night, so I've been 'phoning madly everywhere to find out if you had arrived and where. Then I would have tried to get to you. We went out a car and it couldn't get through, and the horses couldn't either."

"Don't worry," Winifred smiled at her reflection in the triple mirror at the dressing table. "I don't give a rap about the money or position or anything. Anne. We've been right out in to the primitive world together, lost in the snow, and I'd go with him to the end of the world if this blessed old world had any ends. He said, just as we were driving in here, it was the most promising New Year's he had ever known."

Doctor Crockett's Defi.

Former Rockland Man, At the Age of 84, Explains Why He Thinks He Has Made Athletic Records.

Editor of The Courier-Gazette:—

When asked to relate some events of my life to the Boston Post and Boston American I stated that my desire was to leave a record behind me, and a request that the press of the future watch for a competitor who shall succeed in equalling or exceeding any of the records.

A boy of 16 years, who has learned a trade, who has charge of bookkeeping, correspondence, bank account, drawing and signing all checks, selling, lifting and lugging, piling flour five tiers high; and as a feature putting a 100-lb keg of nails from the floor up on to a shelf just the height of arms extended, above the head, and taking a barrel of sugar, 252 pounds weight, from a truck and lugging it the length of the store, 60 feet; a boy who at the age of 19 has helped rig two ships, one of 1800 tons, one of 2300, taking the rigging from coil and fitting it, and at 20 make his last voyage as third mate of one of the ships; at 22 years made a successful set to with heavy-weight (Woods) who was at the time matched to fight John C. Heenan for the world's championship—Woods 230 lbs., my weight 163.

At age of 40 made a draw with a New Yorker, who was introduced as the coming lightweight of the world, at No. 50 Houston street, New York. I was on to New York and Philadelphia buying coal. Went to see the exhibition, as it was the most important of the kind for years, being just before the fight of lightweights Edwards and Chambers. The Old Arbor, No. 50 West Houston, was considered one of the toughest places in all the U. S. A. I was a perfect stranger, was introduced as a dry goods clerk from Boston. On my way home stopped over in Boston and had a glove contest with Mike Parsons, a silent partner of Bush Brothers & Co., Summer street. Parsons was 185 pounds. I met Fred Brown, one of the toughest 196 pounds, and put him on the sick list for over six weeks, all for the fun of it and to see how it would seem.

When acting as forage master of the 3rd Brigade of the 1st Corps, the tent was made to drive me out. After much trouble and many refusals to fight for the place, a man called Big Louie from the 2nd Michigan was picked to finish me. Louie was the bad man of the 2nd and the largest, 6 feet 4 inches, ravened and a brute. He came at me at night in the quartermaster's tent where I was alone, but his friends were outside. When the finish came Big Louie was calling for help and Capt. Greenleaf went among the men and offered $200 to anyone who would take my measure for a whipping. Those were times when men and horses were starving, and for had to fight his way without fear or favor.

Years pass and I find myself in the Hub, for a living. Unfortunately I got entangled in financial matters and was obliged to do a business unpleasant and unprofitable for a few years. And here I had to stand against a crowd who took me for a softy because I dressed well, wore a tall hat and gloves and toiled a cane. I lost all and came out of the business broke, and $1000 in debt. Then I took up teaching in a general way in athletics. I had to give Baker a go with the gloves, 22 rounds, 19 rounds with a broken right hand—no seconds, no fans, no water, one bit of a lemon and never sat down during the whole fight; walked the floor between the rounds. It was a fight to the finish and I won.

One of the foundry toughs of South Boston, who for years had been an annoyance to the police, was one of the gang who used to insult me as I passed them on the street—had done so for months. I had returned late in the evening from Lawrence. On one night from Beach street to L street he pushed and pulled and talked, insulting me to the amusement of the other passengers. When the finish came the other fellow was in the hands of a doped stationer. I had no scars but was out just one tall hat. That was Sullivan's last trouble making. And I have been a pretty good boy ever since. I had a number of friendly blows and offered to give Mr. Sheppard a go in Boston for $100 a side and once in Manchester, N. H., for fun. He declined both.

You know all about my swimming at home. One summer I swam from the Head House to L street and return 16 times. I made 19 swimming trips across the bay from L street and return. Made one swim from Head House 7 miles. These were done after I was 65 years old. In May after my 80th birthday I swam across Boston bay, water temperature 37, my last long swim. I was a steady winter bather for 27 years. Four days after my 75th birthday I walked the 25 miles of the Marathon in 6 hours and 7 minutes. For 15 years, during the winter months, I took early morning walks with just covering enough to clear the law. My longest walk was 8 miles, the coldest was 6 above zero. Reference: Capt. John Brickley of the

Instant Relief "Pape's Diapiesin" Ends Your Stomach Trouble Forever.

Wonder what upset your stomach— which portion of the food did the damage—do you? Well, don't bother. If your stomach is in a revolt; if sour, gassy and upset, and what you just ate has fermented into stubborn lumps; head dizzy and aches; belch gases and acids and eructate undigested food; breath foul, tongue coated—just take a little Pape's Diapiesin and in five minutes you wonder what became of the indigestion and distress. Millions of men and women today know that it is needless to have a bad stomach. A little Diapiesin occasionally keeps this delicate organ regular and they eat their favorite foods without fear.

If your stomach doesn't take care of your liberal limit without rebellion; if your food is a damage instead of a help, remember the quickest, surest, most harmless relief is Pape's Diapiesin which costs only fifty cents for a large case at drug stores. It's truly wonderful—it digests food and sets things straight, so gently and easily that it is really astonishing. Please, for your sake, don't go on and on with a weak, disordered stomach; it's so unnecessary.

EDGAR THOMAS PILLSBURY

Since the obituary mention of Mr. Pillsbury was printed in the Tuesday issue of this paper the following has been received from Lincolnville, containing additional particulars:

Edgar T. Pillsbury, son of Capt. Thomas R. and Mary (Brown) Pillsbury, was born in Rockland Aug. 28, 1849. As a boy he attended the public schools of the city, and after finishing his schooling he went to sea for several years, making long voyages. Dissatisfied with the life of a sailor, he came ashore and spent two years in Michigan. In 1871 he returned East and bought the farm in Lincolnville, which he occupied until his death on Dec. 21, 1879. He was married to Mrs. Rosannah C. Post of St. George. From this union eight children were born of whom six are living—Lizzie M. of Westboro, Mass., Gladstone of Somerville, Mass., Rose M., a school teacher at Boothbay, Edgar T. of Lynn, Mass., Mrs. Flora Nichols and Walter B. Pillsbury are living at home.

Mr. Pillsbury was baptized into the fellowship of the First Baptist church, Rockland, in 1871 and united with the Chestnut Street Baptist church in Camden by letter in 1908. He was interested in Lincolnville Beach for many years and gave time and money for the work of the church. He was a member of the Mesquitook Grange. He was a good husband, a kind father and an obliging neighbor. The interment was in Maplewood cemetery, Duck Trap. Rev. C. L. Stevens officiating at the funeral.
